THOUGHTS

By BECKY RAY
Welcome once again to the funny farm! Yes, here it is, almost Halloween time, and I have yet to get use to classes. Okay, so maybe I am a little slow. No one ever accused me of being a brain surgeon. Speaking of which, just last week I was walking to class like a good little girl when suddenly this man cam rushing out of the lobby in one of the girl's dorms and asked me to perform brain surgery on him. Well, being the kind, warm-hearted person that I am, I did my best. So for all of my instructors who were wondering why I missed their class last week, now you know. Anyway...

How about this football strike deal? You know, it just figures, doesn't it? Most of these football players already make more than any Oklahoma school teacher ever fantasized about making, and now they want to be free agents, go figure. It just goes to prove the old saying, give someone an inch, and they'll want a foot. Or, in metric, give someone a centimeter, and they'll want a meter.

So tell me, were you watching TV a couple weeks ago around 10 a.m. when they interrupted my morning talk show to air the President talking at some meeting? I watched the whole speech, and I'm still not sure just what he was talking about. It sounded a little like the speech most kindergarten teachers give whenever they are not sure which kid did something wrong, or even what was done wrong, but they know someone did something! He seemed to be addressing the subject of Afganistan a lot, and if I remember correctly, they weren't even there! And I was missing how to discipline small children on "Sally," what's the difference?

Well folks, I really hate to leave you so soon this week but, I think I hear President Reagan ranting about the football strike somewhere in the distance, so I must leave you now! Until next time!

GROUP REVIEW

Since I did a recent album last time, I'm going all the way back to 1986 for this one. This is the group's second album, coming soon after a solid first album that contained the hit, "Call to Your Heart." The first album was relatively different; I guess one could say. But the second album, now that's good music.

The group I'm referring to is Giuffria. Their second attempt was named, "Silk + Steel" and didn't fall into the trap that many second albums tend to do, by not living up to the potential of the first. The strong vocals of lead singer David Eisley and the creativity of the rest of the group produced an album that is well worth listening to.

Richard Marx first album has done very well. The one problem he does encounter is the common problem that the first side is good and the second side falls off. All of the songs on the first side I'll listen to one after the other. But on the second I'll skip over most songs looking for the one I might be in the mood for.

His big hits so far include, "Don't Mean Nothing", "Should've Known Better", "Endless Summer Nights", "Lonely Heart", and "Hold on to the Nights" are all workable songs. You don't need to understand his meanings of try to figure out what he is saying to enjoy these songs. He did do his job. However, I'm ready for his next album.

The one song that was released was "Radio". It is a good song, but the group still lacked exposure. The album itself contains several good songs. If you want a ballad, it's there. If you want to rock, Giuffria makes that easy too. The only song that holds the album back at all is, "Dirty Secrets". But the rest of them, "No Escape," "I Must be Dreaming," "Heartache," and "Lethal Lover," just to name a few, make a solid album that I will listen to over and over again.

If anyone remembers the kid singing on the old Peter Pan Peanut Butter commercials, then you will remember Richard Marx. His father did quite a few television commercials and had his son, Richard, do vocals when possible.

Privacy Rights. . . Privacy Rights. . . Privacy Rights. . .

In compliance with the Family Privacy Act of 1974 [commonly called the Buckley-Pell Amendment], Southwestern Oklahoma State University hereby institutes the following policies effective November 19, 1974. These policies shall be published annually in the University newspaper, usually early in the fall semester. In addition, each new beginning freshman shall obtain a copy of this document at the Freshman Orientation Clinic. Additional copies are available to any student or interested party, on request, in the Registrar's Office.

Student Access to Records

Any student shall have the right to gain access to "educational records" on file at SWOSU. "Educational records" are defined as and limited to those records, files, documents, and other materials which contain information directly related to a student and are maintained by SWOSU or by a person acting for SWOSU [with exclusions as provided by law]. The student's right of access shall include:

1. The right to be provided a list of the types of educational records which are maintained by SWOSU and are directly related to students.

2. The right to inspect and review the content of those records [except the student does not have the right of access to confidential information placed in the file prior to January 1, 1975]. If any material or document in the educational record of a student includes information on more than one student, this right is limited to the inspection and review only of such part of the material or document as relates to the student making the request; or may, if impossible to separate, limit that student's right to the right to be informed of the specific information contained in the record which directly relates to that student making the request. [A student has the option to delcare his files "open" or "closed" as regarding educational files kept in the University Placement Office.]

3. The right to obtain copies of those records [at the student's expense, but not to exceed $1.00 per item or actual cost to reproduce].

4. The right to a response from SWOSU to reasonable requests for explanations and interpretations of those records.

5. The right to an opportunity for a hearing to challenge the content of those records.

SWOSU reserves the right to deny a request for a copy of an educational record when a financial or other obligation to the University exists.

Types of Educational Records

In accordance with item one in the preceding sub-section, SWOSU provides the following list of educational records maintained, and the title of the individual[s] in custody of those records:

[Type]

1. Academic:

[Custodian of Record]

Vice-President of the University; Dean of the School of Health Sciences; Dean of Student Personnel; Dean of the School of Education; Director of Student Aids; Registrar.

2. Discipline:

Vice-President of the University; Dean of

3. Health:

4. Placement:

Procedure for Exercise of Rights

In accordance with items two through five in the sub-section titled "Student Access to Records," SWOSU hereby adopts the following procedures:

1. Within 45 days from the time a student makes a request directly to the custodian of the record for access to the record for purpose of inspection and review, the custodian of the record will allow such inspection and review in his presence.

2. No part of the record shall be destroyed between the time a request for inspection is made and the time such inspection is allowed.

3. No part of the record shall at that time be removed by the student, but the student may request copies of the record [and may be charged the reasonable cost of reproduction].

4. The custodian of the record will, if requested by the student, set an appointment within a week to explain and interpret to the student any specified part of the record.

5. The student may at the time of this appointment, consider it an informal hearing and challenge the content of the record. Any mutual agreement between the student and the custodian of the record [whether as to retention or destruction of the record or any part of it] shall terminate the question.

6. If such informal hearing does not resolve the question, the student has the right to appeal. Appeals must be submitted within three days of notice of denial, in writing, addressed to the Chairman of the Student Appeals Board, Room 110, Administration Building, Southwestern Oklahoma State University campus. Failure to give notice of intent to appeal within three days after denial will automatically waive the right to appeal. The composition of the Student Appeals Board is two students, appointed by the President of the Student Senate, and three faculty members, appointed by the President of the Faculty Senate. Any four members of the Appeals Board shall constitute a quorum for purposes of conducting a hearing. The decision of the board is final, and the student will have exhausted his/her rights to appeal within the institution.

7. It is noted, however, that a student, dissatisfied with the results of a hearing, may place a statement in the education record in question commenting upon the information therein, and/or setting forth any reason for disagreement with the institutional decision not to correct or amend the record. Such a statement shall become a part of the information contained in the education record and will be disclosed with it.

Further, a student may appeal by making written complaint to the Department of Education. Current address for filing such complaint will be available in the Registrar's Office.

Directory Information

In accordance with the Family Privacy Act of 1974, SWOSU identifies the following numbered items as "directory information." This information can be released to interested parties on a "need to know" basis unless the custodian of the record identified previously is notified in writing to the contrary at the beginning of each school semester.

1. Name of student
2. Local and home address
3. Telephone listings
4. Date and place of birth
5. Major field[s] of study
6. Participation in officially recognized activities and sports

8. Dates of attendance
9. Degrees and awards received, including dates
10. Previous educational agencies or institutions attended by the student

[Students seeking to earn a degree in pharmacy should be particularly aware that the disclosure of academic records of pharmacy students to various State and Federal agencies is required by both State and Federal laws and/or regulations.

The Dean of the School of Health Sciences will continue to serve as the agent for pharmacy students and pharmacy graduates in providing such information to appropriate State and Federal officials and agencies.) Release to any other third party will be made only at the written directive of the students, or as required by law.

Special Information

Legitimate Educational Interest: The demonstrated need to know by those officials of an institution who act in the student's educational interest, including faculty, administration, clerical and professional employees, and other persons who manage student record information.

SWOSU includes in a student's rights under the law the withholding of privacy rights information to parents and/or guardians without written permission of the student, assuming the student's "independence." However, the student is reminded that a parent or legal guardian who can prove the student's legal dependence upon them is then entitled to the same rights to information as the student. SWOSU will accept either of the following from the parent or guardian as fulfilling this requirement:

1. A certified copy of the parent or guardian's most recent Federal Income Tax Form clearly showing the student was claimed as a dependent.
2. A signed and notarized statement, provided in the institution's format, which attests to the fact that half or more of the student's support was provided during the immediate past federal tax year, and that the student was claimed as an exemption

Students Need Time

By JERRY HAYES

It seems unanimous. One of the major problems of someone working their way through college is the lack of time to get everything done.

"No spare time for myself," was Holly Windham's complaint.

That feeling ran over to many people. Jana Jenkins found her problem to be trying to find time to study between parties and work. Jana explains, "I work around 30 hours a week and am carrying a double major of Agronomy and Botany." She also pointed out the she was receiving no tuition aid or grants and had to pay everything herself. She said that this just meant she had to work more and only take away from her spare time.

Jo Haggerman finds other ways to get through college. While she does work for the college library, it's not enough. She has earned a scholarship and receives both Pell and OTAG grants. Jo also mentioned the no time problem. Her social activities could be better, she pointed out. She did realize the need for working.

As an entering freshman, Tommy Grabeal, of Hammon noticed the lack of time right away. "I don't have time for the things I used to do," he mentioned. "I work at around 15 hours a week here in Weatherford. While I do receive a scholarship, I am paying most of my own way and I need to work."

From what everyone has said, working through college is tough. There never seems to be enough time for social life or studying. Jana pointed out that there were late nights of studying for tests, that again cut into her spare time. Grants and scholarships help, but no money and no time are common problems that take some getting used to.

Plant's 'Cecil Grounded' Receives O. Henry Award

By BRAD SHAW

Seven and a half weeks ago professor of English at Southwestern, Rick Plant, was notified that his short story "Cecil Grounded" was to be published in Prize Stories of 1988--a direct result of being awarded the O. Henry award. The O. Henry award is reserved for only 20, published, American authors of short stories per year.

This will be the sixty-eighth edition of the O. Henry Memorial Award series. The award came to be in 1918 when the Society of Arts and Sciences decided to set up a monument to the master of the short story, O. Henry. The award, it was decided, would come in the form of the publication of the 20 best short stories throughout the year. The editor for the award reads, basically, every short story published annually in America and picks the best 20. "This really comes out of the blue. I knew about the award because I write short stories and have friends that write short stories," Plant stated.

"Cecil Grounded" was originally published in The Antioch Review. Plant considers this his first publication, although he's been published in the Chapbook, WESTVIEW, and has had a personal essay printed in The Christian Science Monitor. "It's the only short story I've published that's what's so extra exciting about this award," added Plant.

Plant estimates he's written about 15 short stories that he wouldn't mind showing. But, since his arrival to the Southwestern campus two years ago, he claims he's done almost no writing, save for a novela that he wrote this past summer.

"I always wanted to write," claims Plant, who has degrees in both English and political science from Oklahoma State University.

The political science degree stems from an original desire to enter law school, of which he went so far in preparation as to taking the LSAT. While a senior at OSU he taught freshman English composition in the fall and one in the spring. This is when Plant decided to pursue a teaching career. "I discovered I could teach and that I enjoyed it," Plant stated.

From OSU Plant attended graduate school at Washington University in St. Louis, MO. Upon receiving his master's degree, he started sending out resumes. Although he did not send one to Southwestern, he was recommended for the job by one of his professors from OSU when an opening came up; subsequently, that is how Plant arrived on our campus.

Plant, 28, was raised in Oklahoma City. He contends there is nothing about the award that will change his lifestyle. "There are some things I don't know about it yet, like the money," joked Plant.

Armoudian Operates Music Business

By ALLYSON REYNOLDS

One day last fall, Maria Armoudian was studying for one of her political science classes at the University of Southern California when the phone rang. It was Dan Price, a member of the well-known area band Skwydro. He had a tape of some original songs and was hoping that Maria could pitch them to some record companies in the Los Angeles area.

Maria, who had always been interested in the music business, took one listen to the tape and knew that the place for her was back home in Weatherford, Okla. in partnership with Dan and his brother, Chris. So she packed up her dog, transferred to Southwestern, and set up Dr. A's Music Publishing House.

"I named it after the man I admire the most - my father," she said. Dr. Armoudian is a physics professor at Southwestern as well as being owner of Treasure Chest Jewelers. Her mother is an English instructor at Southwestern.

A 1984 graduate of Weatherford High School, Maria has always been involved in music. Throughout high school, she was involved in choir, girls show choir, All-State Band, and Shortgrass Honor Band. Although she is currently a senior here, majoring in political science and psychology, she is also studying clarinet under Mr. William Hull.

What is her role as music publisher? "I supply songs to any entity needing music," she said. That includes many things such as listening to songwriter demos and meeting with record companies and performers. "We've received demos from all over the country, in all different varieties. We have pop, country, and even gospel." Once Maria and her partners decide to publish a song, they demo it in their studio at Burns Flat. Maria then takes the song to whoever it is best suited to, be it a record company, another publishing company or an artist.

Some of the artists Maria has met with include Restless Heart, Alabama, John Conlee, and George Jones. She does most of her work over the phone but alot is also done when performers come to Oklahoma City. And she only recently made the first of six planned trips to Nashville.

Phi Delta Theta Rush Is Still Open

The social fraternity of Phi Delta Theta is looking forward to a great semester with this year's new pledges. Rush is still open and anyone interested in joining Phi Delta Theta should come by anytime and visit the house at 914 N. Illinois.

Two of the Phi Delta members got married and congratulations are in order. Jeff Nicklas, of Midwest City, graduated this summer with a business degree, and married Connie Sherrill, another SWOSU graduate. Dan Mannering, of Elk City, married Lea Stallings, a pharmacy major from Tishomingo.

The Phi Delts community service work started with the Arts Festival. The group set up booths and art stands for the various merchants and artists. They are looking forward to the Special Olympics Bowling tournament this fall.

All members were busy this summer with different activities. Rick Byerly recorded a soundtrack for the upcoming movie, "Bloodlake", this summer with his band, Voyager. The movie will be out at the end of October. Shaun Alders is still playing guitar and keyboards with the band Triple Kick. Rick Byerly also attended the annual COAC convention in Oxford, Ohio last August. He was accompanied by member Larry Watkins.

The fraternity is practicing for the intramural football season and they are looking forward to various functions with the social sororities.

The Phi Delts would like to extend their thanks to all those who helped in making changes and improvements on their house and they invite anyone over for a game of volleyball in the back yard.

'A Walking Miracle' Describes Sayre Student

BILL HARRIS, JR. an example of determination

Class Tours Hospital

Records management students taught by Tommy Worley were shown filing equipment, facility layout, and effective office procedures when they toured Sayre Memorial Hospital recently.

Larry Anderson, hospital administrator, welcomed the group and offered continued support for all educational programs in the area.

Medical records technicians Sue Ellison and Elsie Pettit explained the numeric and alphabetic filing systems used to insure accuracy, completeness and confidentiality of in-patient or out-patient records. The circular flow of information from admission and careful record keeping during patient care was highlighted.

Linda Hall, admissions clerk, mentioned the better coordination between departments which is accomplished by her location near the medical records. Various types of filing equipment and techniques were shown and discussed.

The medical records technicians also told the group the training requirements necessary to become a registered medical records technician. The four-year program available through SWOSU was highly recommended.

Insurance clerk Leasa Hartman explained the uniform reporting form that has made filing of claims more efficient. Active and inactive filing procedures were discussed. Subject filing by payer groups is accomplished by the computer. An alphabetic list generated by the computer organizes all patients according to medicare, welfare, private insurance, Blue Cross/Blue Shield, or private pay categories.

Since Stephanie Patten, business office clerk, is located near the insurance clerk and medical records, payments received from patients can be applied properly and questions asked by discharged patients and/or their families can be readily answered. The central location of various offices and the arrangement of equipment within each office facilitates records management.

The comptroller, Phillip Cavazos, and Tammy Kiener, accounting clerk, demonstrated chronological and numerical filing procedures used in the accounting department. Patient charges are filed chronologically (day by day) during patient care. An alphabetic and numeric list of vendors is maintained allowing immediate access to information about individual suppliers and purchases.

Carolyn Davis, administrative secretary, explained the use of rotary files, shelf files, vertical files and lateral files. Coordination of all departments and reporting to various agencies is a part of the administrator's job. Her job is to assist the administrator in performing these functions. The modern equipment available to her and other hospital employees makes their job easier.

Approximately 20 students visited the hospital facilities and Instructor Worley state that he appreciated the fine cooperation shown his class. He added, "The local industries are an extension of the classroom and help the university stay attuned to current practices in the marketplace."

"I will walk again," William "Bill" Harris, Jr. told doctors at Grady Memorial Hospital, Chickasha, Ok., as they examined his left leg ripped by a 12-gauge shotgun blast. The doctors wanted to amputate. Bill said no.

This was the second major life-threatening crises Bill had suffered within a four-month span following his graduation from Verden High School in May 1969.

Bill and his wife, Neva, are students at Southwestern Oklahoma State University at Sayre. He is majoring in health careers. Neva is majoring in business, desiring to become a CPA.

Bill carries the scars on his body and vivid memories in his mind of a series of "misfortunes" which would have sapped the ambition of most persons.

In June 1969 just before he was to report for duty with the armed forces, he was riding a motorcycle in Verden destined for Fort Cobb. A vehicle ran a stop sign and plowed into his cycle. His left lung was punctured.

Bill was taken to Grady Memorial hospital and then transferred to Baptist Hospital in Oklahoma City. Enroute from Chickasha the motor of the ambulance caught fire. An ambulance from Oklahoma City was called to the scene and took Bill on to the hospital where he was pronounced DOA (dead on arrival). A sheet was pulled over him, and a hospital orderly pushed the cart into the hall and toward the lower floor. The orderly thought he observed movement, raised the sheet to investigate, and then called doctors. Bill was rushed into surgery.

Afterwards, he was in intensive care one month and on the respirator two weeks. Following this hospital stay, it was still necessary to return to the doctor every third day to have fluid withdrawn from his lungs.

Bill did return to his job at Sequoyah Carpet Mills in Anadarko and had worked there a week on the 4 p.m. to midnight shift when the second misfortune struck.

Driving through Verden at 12:30 one morning, he was stopped by a man who asked for help in starting his stalled car. Bill tried to start the car, not realizing the man was wildly drunk. The man stuck the barrel of a 12-gauge shotgun to Bill's throat and threatened to kill him.

Bill's reaction was to knock the gun down from his face. The gun discharged blowing off most of his left leg above the ankle. Bill applied a tourniquet and made his way to a night watchman on Main Street. He was taken to Grady Memorial Hospital once again.

Doctors wanted to amputate, but Bill refused. There was little tissue and doctors assured him he could never walk. "You must wait for new tissue growth," they said.

A long ordeal was just beginning he was to learn. After a month at Grady Memorial, he was transferred to Anadarko hospital for a month and then to Baptist Memorial for four months. Five separate surgeries were performed during this period.

The first surgery was to cut away the loose tissue; this was repeated in three weeks. The third surgery outlined the leg for grafting, and two days later the doctors began the grafting procedure using tissue from other parts of Bill's body.

Another surgery grafted his legs together with the tissue on his right leg being used to fill some of the void on the left. Three weeks later the legs were separated with another operation.

During this time, Bill watched on the hospital room TV as the first man landed and walked on the moon, while doctors proclaimed to Bill that he would never walk again on earth. By Christmas he was sent home to recuperate in a wheelchair.

Weekly physical therapy continued. Although the foot had no nerves and the muscle tissue was gone, Bill was determined to walked.

It was with much difficulty, but he walked into the hospital for one of his scheduled visits to the astonishment of his doctor. "I don't believe it; you must have had help from above," the doctor said.

Bill walks now with little visible evidence of his injury; however, he still has two No. 4 pellets in his body.

In 1973 he moved to Anadarko to manage the Pizza Inn, and he and Neva were married.

His physical ordeals were not over. While working for the telephone company trimming trees, he was injured when a fellow worker let a chain saw slip. The saw cut his left hand at the wrist. Surgeons at University Hospital took four hours restoring the hand. It remained in a cast six weeks, and today he has 100 percent usage of the hand and wrist.

Since 1974 he has suffered two apparent heart attacks, the loss of his brother in an accident and his father by a heart attack.

Although tragedy and misfortune has stalked Bill, he has not given up. He has continued to work and educate himself. He first entered the health career field by training at American College of Health Careers in Oklahoma City and working at Okarche, Carnegie and Stigler hospitals.

He was training in ultrasound at Anadarko Hospital when he suffered one of his heart attacks and had to leave the health field for farm work while his health improved.

His desire to help others and return to a health career prompted the decision to attend SWOSU at Sayre. He hopes to complete the work here necessary to take the American Registry of Clinical Radiology Technologists tests and later qualify for the American Association of Radiology Technologist.

"It will be a tough job," the 36-year old student admits. He will have to work on weekends and holidays to help meet school and living expenses. He and Neva have two sons; Michael, 13, and Matthew, 10, who are students in Sayre Public Schools. Bill and Neva work part-time at the university.

The family attends the First Baptist Church.

"I've had a variety of experiences," Bill said. Indeed he has. He could be called "a walking miracle." (Condensed from a feature in the SAYRE RECORD written by Sam Dowdell, SWOSU at Sayre personnel.)

BSU Organizes, Plans

BSU members met last Tuesday to select leaders for three committees and to plan future activities.

David Curry will lead the Bible Study group and Wade Pruitt will head up the outreach-evangelism committee. Lisa Carnahan was chosen chairman of the fellowship and recreation committee.

Director David Curry stated, "The meeting was very successful with many ideas for future activities. Some events suggested were volleyball tournaments, and a Halloween party. A council retreat is planned for October," Curry said.

The director reported that the Noonday luncheons continued to draw a good crowd with 110 attending when Rev. Boyd Whitehead of the Prairieview Baptist Church spoke.

Taco Supper Set

Preparations for the club's annual taco supper was the main item of business when Health Career Club members met last week according to sponsors, Mrs. Kathy Brooks and Chris Christian.

Ticket sales began with members receiving ten tickets to sell for the event to be held Oct. 9 at the Sayre Grade School Cafetorium. Adult tickets are $4 with $2.50 for children.

Committees set up to handle the work were arrangements, cooking, serving, clean-up and money collection. Club members are to volunteer and sign up for helping on these committees by seeing any of the officers or sponsors. Each member will bring a dessert.

The supper is held as a fund raiser to provide money for attending state meetings, scholarships and miscellaneous club expenses.

The two main state meetings, one for radiologists, the other for med techs, will be held simultaneously in Midwest City in November.

The group also discussed a car wash, bake sale and raffle as other possible fund raisers for later.

Applications were taken for national scholarships given each year by the national organization.

Approximately 40 students are members of the local group. Membership dues are $2 and are being collect by the club treasurer.

BALMY FALL WEATHER and the Student Senate Hamburger Fry bring students at SWOSU at Sayre outside to enjoy the cookout.

Bill Cosby tells why Red Cross needs your type of blood.

"Every day of the week, there's somebody who needs your type of blood."

"But the thing about blood is: it doesn't keep very long. Which means we've got to keep the supply coming constantly. Donors are needed every day."

"Sorry to say, there are never enough donors."

"In fact, five people out of every 100 are doing the whole job. That's right, five percent of the people give 100 percent of the blood that's donated.

"If you're between 17 and 66, and generally healthy, you can help change all that. And your one blood donation can help up to five people to live."

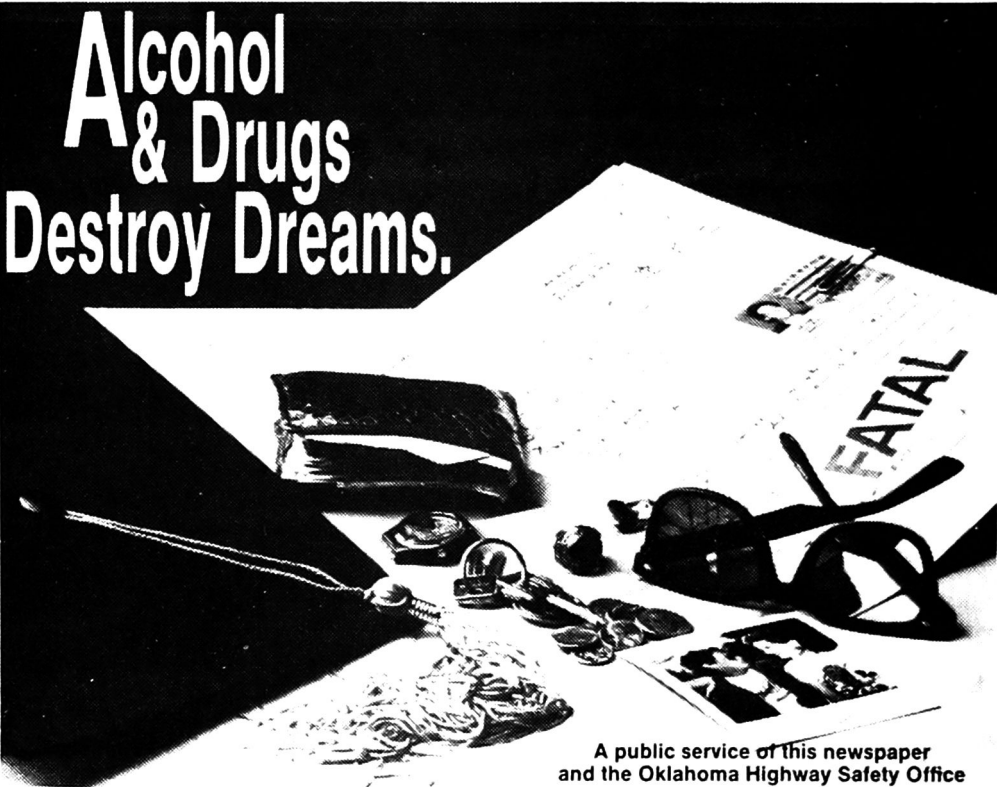

"Call your Red Cross Blood Center and make a donor appointment soon. It's one way you can help keep Red Cross ready... to help others."

Keep Red Cross ready.

Sandra McKinney Chosen as a Camp Counselor

By KATHERINE WALDON

For a vast amount of young children summer camp is a special time to make new friends and have a few weeks of pure fun. Sadly there are some children who never get to experience summer camp because of financial or family problems. Kids who at such a young age may have very adult responsibilities within their homes.

One hundred miles from Vancouver, Canada, there is a camp where every summer several girls who are considered underprivileged get the chance to get away from their homelife and be a part of a summer camp.

This camp is owned by the international sorority of Gamma Phi Beta and is located in Sechelt, Canada. The campers range in age from 8 to 11 years old and are all from the Vancouver area. Young girls are recommended by their school teachers and then the parents of the girls fill out applications which are reviewed by the camp board. 111 girls are picked to attend the camp and others are put on a waiting list. The camp receives over 400 applications a year.

Counselors and other workers at the camp are also picked by applications. There are seven Gamma Phi Beta's selected to be counselors at the camp. This past summer one of the women chosen is a student at Southwestern. Sandra McKinney is a junior, majoring in Elementary Education. She was in Canada from June 21 to Aug. 9 working with the campers. Miss McKinney worked with 37 girls a session along with the six other counselors. Her main duty as counselor was to help the campers with any problems they had.

"Half of the kids at the camp were abused in some way. They were very open with their counselor about problems they had in their lives," stated McKinney. When a counselor learned of a camper being abused in their home a social worker was contacted and the counselor would have to ask the girl several questions then the parents of the child would be notified of the problem. "It made me feel good when a girl would come to me with her problem, because I knew that I could possibly get help for her and change her life in a good way," said McKinney.

The campers and counselors stayed busy the whole time they were at the camp. The mornings were filled with arts and crafts activities or nature hikes. The afternoons were always spent on the beach. 90 percent of the activities were waterfront. The campers got their Red Cross certification for boating, they participated in a Water Olympics, and various other activities. All the holidays were celebrated during each 12 day session and the campers received at least two gifts a day. McKinney said that the girls favorite activity was hugging. When asked what she thought the most important thing was that the campers gained, Miss McKinney replied, "This camp gave the kids the chance to be 'little girls' which is something that a lot of them had missed out on until they went to the Gamma Phi Beta Camp."

McKinney said she decided to apply for the counselors job because she thought it would be fun and because she loves children. She feels that her time spent at the camp, which is run by donations from Gamma Phi chapters, will be very helpful to her when she becomes a part of the Elementary Education field. In conclusion McKinney stated, "I made a lot of new friends, met people involved in my sorority, and I learned to appreciate the things that I have much more."

SANDRA DEFINITELY enjoyed her trip to Canada this summer.

Southwestern Bulldogs Defeat Panhandle State

The Southwestern Bulldogs first road trip payed off for them last Saturday night. With the defeat of the Panhandle State Aggies 19-6. This win improved the Bulldogs record 2-1.

Southwestern gained the lead in the first period when James Hicks made a drive for the end zone from the one-yard line. Southwestern's Kevin Strahorn missed the extra point to leave the score 6-0 in the first period.

Panhandle came battling back in the second quarter. The Aggies rushed for 63 yards in nine plays to set up the touchdown that would tie the game. The Aggies Philipe Chavez ran in the Panhandle touchdown from a 10-yard pass. This tied the score at half time 6-6.

Southwestern met Panhandle's challenge in the second half. Kevin Strahorn fired back with two field goals to boost the Bulldogs lead 12-6. The first field goal was a 42-yarder and the second was from the 31.

Southwestern still wasn't comfortable with the six point lead going into the fourth quarter. They pushed to a 18-6 lead when Todd Hudson hit Jeff Jackson with a 22-yard pass. Strahorn hit the extra point to round out the score 19-6.

Southwestern had 13 first downs against the Aggies. The Dawgs gained 181 yards out of 48 attempts in their rushing game. Then the Bulldogs passed 23 times with seven complete passes for a total of 100 yards.

James Hicks led the team in the rushing game with a total of 156 yards out of 32 tries. Jeff Jackson led the pass receiving with a total of 70 yards out of 5 attempts.

Southwestern will be traveling to Commerce, Tx., next Saturday night to play East Texas State University. The game will start at 7:30 p.m. at Memorial Stadium. The Bulldogs will be trying to improve their 2-1 record and stay unbeaten on the road.

Sports Talk

By JEFF BAKER

Well sports fans how has your week in sports been? If it has been anything like mine then you are pretty worried about the future of the National Football League. I really don't look forward in seeing my favorite football teams and not seeing my favorite players. Using other players in professional football is like playing pro tennis without John McEnroe and replacing him with high school tennis players. It just can't be done.

The players really have it hard. Who else gets payed an unbelievable amount of money for having fun but football players. Its really horrible to make a couple of million a year to go out there and get hit. Believe me, if they would let me, I'd go out there and get knocked around for a year if they would give me "The Boz's" salary.

I'm not saying they don't deserve the money, but it's a little silly to fight over money when their making that much to start with. I would just as soon they get their pads on and start doing what their suppose to be doing, and that is playing football.

By the time everyone reads this it will probably be old news. I hope, because I want to see some decent football, but if not we may be in for a long winter. At least we still have some decent televised college football games left.

From the look of this article you are probably thinking that all I did last week is set in front of the T.V. and made snippy remarks about the NFL, but that's not true. The other half of the time I spent doing sports related activities. If I'm not at the tennis court, I'm probably at the track running, or in the news paper office during my spare time.

I made an interesting observation when I was playing tennis and while I was at the track. I actually saw quite a few people taking part in these activities. On several occasions I actually had to wait for a court. While I was at the track, I even passed several people running. This is telling us something, and I think that something is that Southwestern is experiencing a sports revolution. I really think this is great that people are worried about their health. College students should get out and get some exercise, because if their doing what they should be doing then they would be spending long cramped hours studying.

Oh! By the way. If you are trying to forget about the NFL for a little while. Then I have the thing for you. There will be a Southwestern football game at East Texas State University in Commerce, TX. this Saturday. I know it's a long drive, but I'm sure it will be worth the drive to see our team play.

Golf Team Named

Southwestern's Rodeo Teams Begin New Season

By HEATHER MAGEE

The SWOSU rodeo team, led by coach Don Mitchell and assistant coach George Howard, is busy preparing for the new rodeo season. The first rodeo of the 1987-88 season will be held Oct. 2-4 at Colby, Kansas. After finishing last season with a second place national men's title, a fifth place national women's title, and regional titles for both teams, it will be exciting to see what they can do this year. "We should be able to go to some of these rodeos and win all of the barrel racing. We've got some of the best barrel racers in the country going to school here", said Howard.

The returning seniors for the women's team are: Donelle Kvenild and Kim DeAngelo. Kvenild placed second in the nation in breakaway roping for 1986-87 and is a three time competitor at the National Finals Rodeo.

The returning seniors for the men's team are: Jeff Babek, Kelly Barger, Mark Collins, Payne Dobler, Joe Marland, Bryce Murphy and Marty Musil. Musil holds the titles of NFR steer wrestling champion and world champion steer wrestler for 1985-86.

The team practices every Tuesday, Wednesday, and Thursday afternoon at the Don Mitchell arena, but most of these individuals began practicing at a very young age. "They practice religiously", says Howard.

The right weather, the right time of day, the right position and drawing the right animal are all factors that Howard believes determine the success of the team. "If all of these factors are in our favor, it's hard for anyone to beat us and if they're in everybody else's favor, it's hard for us to beat them, so there's a lot of luck involved here, but we do have a lot of talent. Our balance is good throughout the whole rodeo team. I look for good things to happen. It will be interesting to see what the other teams have. . . and see how they compete against us."
